She has always been an advocate for social justice, especially for issues surrounding homelessness. This is something Leila has been passionate about since the fourth grade, when she began volunteering at a local homeless shelter. When she is not volunteering, she enjoys hanging out with friends, reading and playing soccer. Her favorite thing to do is travel and has visited Mexico, Ecuador, Italy, France and Greece. She just recently returned from a month-long service trip to Ethiopia, where she worked with students to breakdown cultural barriers and discussed ways to create equal education opportunities globally. She is looking forward to diving into issues like gentrification and homelessness as a Youth Commissioner
