Background: Todd is a registered landscape architect and part of the Berger Partnership. His career has been involved with projects both in Seattle and in many other communities, including southern and northern California and British Columbia. He served as a Board member of the People for the Presidio in San Francisco. Closer to home, he has served as Director of the Seattle Architectural Foundation and is a member of the Urban Land Institute. Todd received his degree in Landscape Architecture from the University of Wisconsin. His work has been focused on the re-purposing of urban landscapes, from former industrial waterfronts to alleyways. He is currently working on the Redmond Central Corridor, a plan to reclaim an abandoned rail line as a vital, life-giving pedestrian artery within the City of Redmond. He is a resident of West Seattle and looks forward to his service as a Design Review Board member as a way to connect more deeply to the community.

Subject: Southwest Design Review Board – 2013 Open Positions (Design Professional / Resident)

Dear Lisa,

I am enthusiastic at the opportunity to volunteer my experience, leadership, and knowledge into the design and development of our local communities and neighborhoods in Seattle. I am pleased to provide the attached application and a summary of my qualifications for the position;

Experience

As a practicing landscape architect, my work focuses daily on the diversification of our communities through the creation of new open public and private open spaces providing equal access to our parks, structures, retail districts, industry, waterfronts, etc. My experience working with both developers and architects through the design process and community outreach platforms provide valuable insight and leadership to the discussions and decisions the Southwest Design Review Board will be faced with in the upcoming year.

Managing the process to gain consensus

As a landscape architect, I have spent the majority of my career gaining consensus from public and private entities, leading community and consultant meetings and workshops to establish common ground on key values while hearing input from all sides of the table. I look forward to the challenge of bringing together peoples ideals, passions, and visions. As a sustainable building advisor, I bring a deep perspective on sustainable development, design and associated financial and environmental impacts that rely on decisions occurring in the early stages of the process to make it work effectively for all sides.

Passion for community and commitment

As a design professional and resident of West Seattle, my passion for how our neighborhoods and surrounding communities develop and connect is generational. My family views this region of Seattle as our home, our neighbors as family, and its growth and commitment to continued quality developments and design, as essential to sustaining the growth of our region. Personally, I believe in the walkability of our communities, access to local goods and services, and diversity in the social and economic fabrics that weave our communities together and make them whole. My commitment to the design review board goes beyond meetings, and delves into each project explicitly, first understanding, then providing guidance on how it may influence and support the vision of Seattle, its' residents and their individual communities.

I look forward to the opportunity to help shape and guide quality growth in the Southwest Region of Seattle.

Best regards,

Todd Bronk, PLA, CSBA
