Background: Ziah is in 9th grade at University Prep in Seattle. She has lived in the Beacon Hill and Central District area in Seattle her entire life. Seattle is her community and her home. She is very active in her community and volunteers whenever she gets the chance. She chose to join Seattle Youth Commission because she wanted to help find solutions in addressing important issues happening in Seattle such as violence, homelessness and affordable housing. Along with her fellow Youth Commissioners, she hopes to make a positive change in Seattle. Ziah loves to collaborate and listen to others ideas and understands the importance of people coming together to represent and serve their community. Ziah also enjoys sports, theatre and dance. She loves studying science, civics, law and history. Collaborating with and volunteering for local city art projects is something she loves as well. Ziah is excited to continue to work with the commission this year and learn even more about local government and how to make a positive impact on the issues she cares about.
