Rev. Aaron Williams served as the Senior Pastor of Mount Zion Baptist Church (2008-2017) and presently serves as the Vice-President of the United Black Clergy. His greatest wish as a religious leader is that we strive to create a "beloved community." He believes we must all work towards that end, and he's eager to work with the Mayor and other community leaders to make it a reality. Aaron served on the Police Chief Search Committee for the City of Seattle in 2009. Aaron has served on the Community Police Commission since it's inception in 2013. He received his Bachelor of Arts Degree in Sociology from Paine College in Augusta, Georgia, and a Master of Theology with an emphasis in Systematic Theology from Dallas Theological Seminary in Dallas, Texas.

Dear City Council,

I hereby state my intention to continue service on the Community Police Commission

I presently serve as Vice President of the United Black Christian Clergy of Washington State. An organization that is committed to serving the marginalized and particularly people of color in King County and the surrounding communities. I have an abiding commitment to social justice and being a voice for African-Americans. I'm also committed to police reform and accountability in Seattle. Having served on the CPC since it's inception, I convinced that the work of police accountability must continue in order to see real change.

As a faith community leader, who regularly stands in the tragic gap as a voice of social justice and the marginalized in society, to continue serving on the Community Police Commission is an important component of my work toward making a Seattle a "Beloved Community". I received my undergraduate degree in sociology from Paine College and a Masters in Theology from Dallas Theological Seminary. Thanks for your continued commitment to police reform in Seattle.

Respectfully Submitted,

Caron Williams
