Number 5

The City of Seattle is committed to being a safe, vibrant, interconnected, and affordable city for all.

Week Overview

Week five of the 2018 legislative session saw the house of origin fiscal cutoff (February 6th) and the beginning of floor action. Over 1,000 bills made it out of committee by fiscal cutoff which is still a significant number of bills to still be considering. Both chambers continue to work at a rapid pace and have been scheduled late into the night, as well as through the weekend, as they try to pass bills out of their respective floors before the house of origin floor cutoff on February 14th. It is worth noting that despite these important cutoff deadlines, bills considered “necessary to implement the budget” (NTIB) are exempt from these deadlines. So, though a bill may not have met its deadline, no bill is truly dead until session concludes.

A Primer on the Rules Committee

Before a bill can make it to the chamber floor for debate and vote it must first make it out of the Rules Committee. This can be a fairly confusing process, especially since the House and Senate use different terminology for parts of the Rules Committee process. To help better understand this process, we have provided primer on the Rules Committee.

The Rules committee is a powerful committee and is often referred to as “The Gatekeeper”. Some people also say that the Rules committee is where bills go to die. This is because it is a big hurdle to get pulled out of the Rules committee and brought to the floor and many bills don’t make it through. The process for getting pulled from Rules can seem complicated and can also be difficult to influence.

The simplified explanation of the Rules committee is that it is a two-step process to determine which bills will be placed on the floor calendar for amendment, debate, and ultimately for a vote by the full chamber (House or Senate). The following is a brief summary of each chamber’s process for the Rules Committee. The processes are very similar, but given the use of different terminology and some nuances, they will be explained differently.

Senate Rules Committee Process

In Senate Rules there are two calendars – the white sheet and the green sheet. The white sheet is where bills are sent immediately after passing out of a standing committee. The green sheet is a consideration calendar made up of bills that have been “pulled” by Rules committee members from the white sheet and is essentially the list of bills eligible to go to the floor. Bills can be pulled from the white to green sheet without debate or vote. Senate Rules Committee members get a predetermined number of pulls.

Once on the green sheet they are eligible to pull to the floor at the next Rules meeting, but to make it to the floor they are first debated and voted on by Rules committee members. Bills can also be pulled in “packages” where groups of bills may be voted out of Rules at one time. Senate Rules also allows what is known as a “leadership pull”, which is where a package of bills can be pulled by leadership from the Review and/or Consideration calendars to the floor. If a bill is voted out of the Rules committee it is added to the floor calendar for second and third reading.

House Rules Committee Process

There are also two calendars in House Rules – the “Rules Review” calendar and the “Rules Consideration” calendar. Bills referred from a standing committee are placed on the Rules Review calendar. Rules Committee members can then pull a bill from the Rules Review calendar to the Rules Consideration calendar. This is the first pull. House Rules Committee members get a predetermined number of pulls. At a later meeting a member can do a second pull to move the bill from the Rules Consideration calendar to the floor calendar. Rules members vote on every motion to pull a bill. If a bill is voted out of the Rules committee it is added to the floor calendar for second and third reading. House Rules also allows what is known as a “leadership pull”, which is where a package of bills can be pulled from the Review and/or Consideration calendars to the floor.

A Primer on First, Second, and Third Reading

During floor activity, we also hear a lot about 2nd and 3rd reading. These terms are important steps in the legislative process.

For all three readings, a bill is almost never actually read in its entirety. This is why you will hear the Speaker or Lt. Governor stop the person reading the bill after a few words and say, ‘last line.’ A member can ask for a bill to be read in its entirety, but this rarely happens.

- First Reading: This is the first of three readings required to pass bills. When a bill is on first reading, that is when it is first introduced into a chamber and is referred to standing committees. At this point in session, we are seeing the second round of first readings because bills that passed out of their house of origin are being introduced and read into the opposite house for the first time and then referred to a standing committee.
- Second Reading: When a bill appears on the calendar for second reading, this means it can be put on the order of consideration and brought to the floor for debate and can be amended. After the debate and potential amendment, the bill in theory would be returned to the Rules Committee where it must receive a favorable vote before being placed on the third reading calendar for final passage. This referral to back Rules [between second and third reading] is almost always bypassed and the bill is placed on final passage immediately following its second reading. This happens when a member says, “Let the Rules be suspended, that (the bill) be advanced to third reading, let the second reading be considered the third, and the bill be placed on final passage.” This means they will be doing second reading and then immediately following will do the third reading without the bill going back to Rules.
- Third Reading: This is the final consideration of a bill before either house. The bill can be debated, voted on, or tabled. It cannot be amended during third reading. Final passage of a bill takes a constitutional majority.

It was further amended by the House Transportation Committee to provide exemptions to the requirement that WSDOT and WSP remit 10% of any net proceeds from the sale of state real property to Housing Trust Fund through 2020 where such remittance is otherwise prohibited by law. It now also exempts the sale of surplus property acquired for use related or that is in the vicinity of the SR 520 bridge replacement and HOV program, AWV replacement project, Southbound Tacoma Narrows Bridge, I-405 corridor program, Puget Sound Gateway program, and the US 395 North Spokane Corridor Program. ## Health Care

Opioid Treatment and Prevention: The House version of Governor Inslee's proposal for addressing the opioid crisis, HB 2489, would implement a "hub and spoke" system that would allow every community access to medical expertise on the issue, establish statewide access to treatment, and would make medication-assisted treatment more available in the state. There were two floor amendments proposed that related to safe consumption sites, but both amendments were ruled as being outside of the 'scope and object' of a bill and therefore were not brought to a vote. There was a small floor amendment that was adopted that exempted veterinarians from requirements to have in-person discussions with patients about the risks of opioids. The House bill passed off the House floor unanimously on February 9th and has been scheduled for a public hearing in the Senate Committee on Health & Long Term Care on February 15th.

Market Stabilization: Insurance Commissioner Mike Kreisler's market stability proposal on reinsurance, HB 2355, or Senate, SB 6062, continues to have uncertainty on its path forward. While the House (HB 2355) or Senate (SB 6062) proposals moved quickly through committee early in session and both are in their respective Rules committees, neither bill had any activity last week. The apparent deadline for passing the proposal in time to meet the timeline for the federal 1332 waiver has lapsed. The federal waiver would have drawn down some federal funds to help implement the program. Even though the time has passed for the 1332 waiver, there is still interest from some stakeholders in establishing a reinsurance program, though the discussions about potential different approaches that could be taken remain private at this point. Both bills are currently still on second reading.

Conversion Therapy: SB 5722, sponsored by Sen. Liias, restricts the practice of conversion therapy and makes it unprofessional conduct for a licensed health care provider to perform conversion therapy on a patient under the age of 18. SSB 6573 was placed on second reading on February 8th.

Mental Health Field Response Team: HB 2892, sponsored by Rep. Lovick, creates the mental health field response team grant program (program), administered by the Washington Association of Sheriffs and Police Chiefs and requires the Washington State Institute for Public Policy to conduct a study on whether the program improves outcomes of interactions with persons experiencing behavioral health crises. Youth Mental Health: 2SHB 2779, sponsored by Rep. Senn, is an omnibus bill that would reestablish the Children's Mental Health Work Group through the year 2020, allow provider reimbursement for supervision and partial hospitalization and intensive outpatient treatment programs, direct the Health Care Authority and the Department of Children, Youth, and Families to develop strategies for expanding home visiting, direct an advisory group to make recommendations regarding parent initiated treatment, and require the delivery of mental health instruction in two high school pilot sites. The bill was amended in House Appropriations to remove two sections of the original bill: 1) the child psychiatric residency at UW; and 2) a requirement focused on infant mental health for the department to contract with infant nurse consultants to work with child care providers caring for infants. The bill has been placed on second reading and has a proposed floor amendment that would add the UW residency position back in. 2SHB 2779 was placed on second reading on February 8th.

Behavioral Health Facilities: SSB 6468, sponsored by Sen. Braun, authorizes the State Finance Committee (Committee) to issue up to $500 million in general obligation bonds to finance community-based mental health facilities and to pay issuance and bond sale expenses and directs the Secretary of State to submit the bond authorization to a vote of the people. The bill was placed on second reading on February 8th.

Essential Coverage: SB 6084, sponsored by Sen. Cleveland, originally aimed to require maintenance of minimum essential health care coverage. In other words, this bill would have established an individual mandate at the state level. The bill was first amended in the Senate Health & Long Term Care committee by adding on a task force to explore individual mandate enforcement mechanisms and the feasibility of other options to incentivize the maintenance of minimum essential coverage, and requires the task force to report on its findings to the legislature by December 1, 2018. The bill was further amended when it was brought to the Senate floor last week for debate and vote. The floor amendment that was adopted removed the individual mandate. At this point the bill no longer establishes an individual mandate, but instead it is a task force to look into individual mandate enforcement mechanisms. The bill was voted off the Senate floor on February 7th with a 25 – 23 vote count.

Individual Market Access: HB 2408, sponsored by Rep Cody, would require a health carrier to offer qualified health plans in counties where it offers a health plan approved by the School Employees' Benefits Board and also reduces the premiums for enrollees in the Washington Health Insurance Pool in counties where there is no other individual market coverage available, passed out of House Appropriations last week with a vote of 19 – 13, and one without recommendation. HB 1054 placed on second reading on February 8th. There are three floor amendments currently proposed: one that would change the purchase age to 19 instead of 21, and two others relating the purchase of tobacco products on tribal land by nontribal members.

Employee Reproductive Choice Act: SSB 6102, sponsored by Sen. Ranker, makes it an unfair practice for employers to not provide its employees with contraception coverage at no cost to the employee and makes it an unfair practice for an employer not regulated by the state due to federal preemption, to not comply with the ACA and federal rules on barrier-free access to contraceptive coverage. The substitute bill was placed on second reading on February 8th.

Drug Takeback: HB 1047, sponsored by Rep. Peterson, would require manufacturers that sell drugs into Washington to operate a drug take-back program to collect and dispose of prescription and over-the-counter drugs from residential sources. The proposal passed off the House floor on Friday with a vote of 86 – 12. There were several floor amendments proposed, but all except one were withdrawn or not considered. The one amendment that was adopted was a striker, which made several changes that are outlined in the effect statement on the last two pages of the amendment.

Education

Basic Education Provisions: SSB 6362 –, requested by the Superintendent of Public Instruction and sponsored by Senator Wellman, is the comprehensive HB 2242 (2017) fix bill that continues to move forward this session. This eligibility requirement would adjust each academic year until the 2024-25 school year, when an eligible student may receive an award for 12 academic quarters or the equivalent in semester hours if they have graduated from high school and have a family income that does not exceed the state MFI. The bill also requires development of a student success course, measurement of the impacts of the program, and establishment of an alternative grant program if appropriation levels are less than what is required for full implementation.
