Background:  Linda Phan is currently an 11th grader at Garfield High School. Linda is a first-generation, low-income, woman of color. Her personal mission is to address inequality that Seattle youth face. She sees the Seattle Youth Commission as a way of amplifying the voices of underrepresented communities. Her leadership experience includes volunteer work for: The Service Board Organization, Post 84 and Girl Up. The Service Board empowers youth through social justice education and snowboarding lessons. Post 84 aims to educate youth through outdoor education and is the largest youth-led non-profit in Washington. Girl Up is an international organization with the United Nations and advocates for women across the globe through fundraising and conferences. She serves as President of DECA, Vice-President of American Civil Liberties Union, Vice-President of Vietnamese Student Association, and Secretary of National Honors Society.
