Seattle Aquarium overview and updates

Our lives depend on the ocean

- Life support system for our blue planet
- The ocean provides
 - Half of our oxygen
 - Food we eat
 - Climate control
- Exquisite, biodiverse habitats
- 80% has not yet been explored

The ocean faces unprecedented threats that endanger all life on earth, including ours

- Global warming
- Industrial pollution
- Destructive overfishing
- Oil spills
- Noise
- Habitat loss
- Destruction of vital ecosystems
- <1% of the ocean is protected

We can go beyond limiting harm;
our vision is regeneration.

- Restore a healthy, thriving ocean
- Leave our planet and our communities better than we found them
- Many solutions already exist
 - Renewable energy
 - Sustainable fishing
 - Species and habitat recovery programs

Our mission:
Inspiring conservation of our marine environment

We lead the region in conservation education.

- 800,000+ visitors per typical year
- Free community tickets to >70,000 people annually
- 2+ million visitors expected with the Ocean Pavilion
- Youth Ocean Advocates

We engage local schools, communities, and global partners.

- More than 40,000 students from 200 school districts
- Virtual programming and field trips
- 75,000+ community conversations on by Beach Naturalists and Cedar River Salmon Journey volunteers
- 400+ community partners
- 200+ conservation partners across 13 countries

We advance science-based ocean policy and regulations.

- Raising our voice and partnering to recover southern resident orcas
- Advancing solutions to and reducing plastic pollution
- Serving on leadership committees to shape and advance equitable, enduring actions

We are recovering endangered species:
Pinto abalone.

We are recovering endangered species:
Indo-Pacific leopard sharks.

A welcoming space for all:
inspiring action
