CITY OF SEATTLE

ORDINANCE _____

COUNCIL BILL _____

AN ORDINANCE relating to human rights; including protections against discrimination based on an individual's caste; making technical amendments; and amending Sections 3.14.910, 3.14.931, 3.110.260, 4.80.020, 5.30.020, 6.02.270, 6.202.230, 14.04.020, 14.04.030, 14.04.040, 14.06.020, 14.06.030, 14.08.015, 14.08.020, 14.08.045, 14.08.070, 14.08.190, 14.10.010, 14.10.020, 14.11.020, and 18.12.280 of the Seattle Municipal Code.

WHEREAS, caste is a system of rigid social stratification characterized by hereditary status, endogamy, and social barriers sanctioned by custom, law, or religion; and

WHEREAS, caste discrimination is based on birth and descent, and occurs in the form of social segregation, physical and psychological abuse, and violence; and

WHEREAS, caste discrimination manifests in employment, education, and housing; and

WHEREAS, in 2016, the United Nations Special Rapporteur on minority issues stated that at least 250 million people worldwide still face “appalling and dehumanizing discrimination based on caste and similar systems of inherited status,” and during a presentation of the first comprehensive report on caste-based discrimination in 2016 to the United Nations Human Rights Council, the Rapporteur described caste-based discrimination as “a global problem,” and that “caste-based discrimination and violence goes against the basic principles of universal human dignity and equality, as it differentiates between ‘inferior’ and ‘superior’ categories of individuals, which is unacceptable”; and

WHEREAS, the majority of the affected communities live in or originate from South Asia, including India, Nepal, Sri Lanka, Bangladesh, and Pakistan, where many are known by the self-chosen identity of “Dalits,” which means “those who have been broken but are resilient” and others are indigenous or indentured community members; and

WHEREAS, similarly affected groups are also found in or originate from elsewhere in Asia, Africa, the Middle East, the Pacific region, and various diaspora communities, and caste is found in communities of religious practice among South Asians in America; and

WHEREAS, the United Nations Special Rapporteur on minority issues has also stated that “[t]he term ‘caste’ refers to a strict hierarchical social system that is often based on the notions of purity and pollution, in which individuals placed at the bottom of the system may face exclusion and discrimination in a wide range of areas. The concept of ‘caste system’ is primarily associated with the South Asian region, where its existence is linked to the religiously sanctioned social structure of Hinduism, which identified four original and endogamous groups, or castes, called varnas. ... At present, the term ‘caste’ has broadened in meaning, transcending religious affiliation. Caste and caste-like systems may be based on either a religious or a secular background and can be found within diverse religious and/or ethnic groups in all geographical regions, including within diaspora communities”; and

WHEREAS, in an editorial published May 25, 2021, in The New York Times, Professors Paula Chakravartty and Ajantha Subramanian wrote that “oppressed castes in the United States are doubly disadvantaged- by caste and race. Making caste a protected category under federal law will allow for the recognition of this double disadvantage”; further writing that to “protect oppressed castes in the United States, we have to be willing to insist that civil rights extend to communities whose oppression is still hidden”; and

WHEREAS, caste is found significantly among South Asian Americans-data from Equality Labs, a Dalit civil rights organization dedicated to ending caste apartheid, gender-based violence, Islamophobia, white supremacy, and religious intolerance, has found that one in four caste-oppressed people faced physical and verbal assault, one in three face education discrimination, and two in three face workplace discrimination; and

and religious oppression and oppressors on ideological, political and social fronts, collected testimonies that found that caste is present and practiced in many industries, neighborhoods, and corporate and educational networks, and has had social, economic, and psychological impacts on individuals; and WHEREAS, caste is found in many industries and is a grave contributor to workplace discrimination and bias; individuals in industries like technology, construction, restaurant, domestic work and other employment sectors have faced caste discrimination, harassment, bias, wage theft, and even trafficking; and WHEREAS, in 2001, federal law enforcement officials convicted Lakireddy Bali Reddy, an upper-caste South Asian American-then one of Berkeley, California’s richest landlords with over a thousand rental properties worth tens of millions of dollars-and his family members of trafficking multiple Dalit minor girls and young women from India and subjecting them to sexual servitude and labor exploitation in the United States; and WHEREAS, in December 2019, Brandeis University announced a first-in-the-nation policy adding caste to its campus-wide non-discrimination and harassment policy; and WHEREAS, in announcing the policy, Brandeis University president Ron Liebowitz said that “since caste identity is so intertwined with many of the legally recognized and protected characteristics, discrimination based on a person’s caste is effectively the same. Going forward, the Office of Equal Opportunity will oversee issues and complaints of discrimination related to caste brought forward by members of the Brandeis community, just as it does for other types of discrimination”; and WHEREAS, in January 2020, California State University-the largest four-year public university system in the United States-added caste as a protected category in its systemwide anti-discrimination policy across all its 23 campuses, which was a groundbreaking decision in response to a large multi-caste, inter-faith movement of students and faculty; and WHEREAS, in October 2022, the California Department of Fair Employment and Housing won an appeals court ruling to proceed with a lawsuit alleging that a Dalit engineer at Cisco Systems-a multibillion-dollar tech conglomerate-was actively targeted by his dominant-caste managers, and denied professional opportunities, a raise and promotions because of his caste background. In their report published July 14, 2020, The New York Times wrote that the “technology giant got away with ignoring the persistent caste discrimination because American laws don’t yet recognize caste discrimination as a valid form of exclusion,” allowing companies to operate “in willful ignorance of the terrifying realities of caste”; and

WHEREAS, the Alphabet Workers Union (AWU-CWA Local 1400), representing over 1,100 workers at Alphabet (the parent company of tech giant Google) has said, “Caste-oppressed workers face many barriers throughout the tech industry, including at Alphabet. Caste is a system of oppression analogous to racial discrimination and is rampant throughout many American institutions. We support tech workers around the world who are speaking up about casteism and hostile workplaces”; and

WHEREAS, the Alphabet Workers Union has also called for caste to be recognized as a protected class by the U.S. government and be included in anti-harassment policies in the tech industry, saying that the “fight for the civil rights of caste-oppressed people is a workers’ fight”; and

WHEREAS, the Asian Pacific American Labor Alliance (APALA), AFL-CIO, “the first and only national organization of Asian American and Pacific Islander (AAPI) workers, most of whom are union members” that has helped address “the workplace issues of the 660,000 AAPI union members” and serve “as the bridge between the broader labor movement and the AAPI community” have declared that they are “committed to providing an environment free from discrimination and harassment, regardless of an individual’s race, ethnicity, religion, color, sex, age, national origin, caste or perceived caste, sexual orientation, disability, gender identity or expression, ancestry, pregnancy, or any other characteristic prohibited by law”; and

WHEREAS, the NAACP passed a resolution in 2021, resolving that the organization “stands opposed to the practices of caste systems in the United States of America,” and that the NAACP “will educate all of our Members and Units to become even better educated in the practices of the caste system and take necessary actions to expose and end such practices and work to repair the damages already done”; and

WHEREAS, consistent with the guidance of the U.S. Department of Justice, Civil Rights Division’s interpretation of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act to include a prohibition against discrimination based on actual or perceived shared ancestry or citizenship in a country whose residents share a dominate religion or distinct religious identity, The City of Seattle prohibits discrimination and harassment based on race, color, ancestry, religion, creed, and national origin; and

WHEREAS, caste identity is inextricably intertwined with those legally recognized protected characteristics such that discrimination based on one’s caste is effectively discrimination based on an amalgamation of the legally protected characteristics; and

WHEREAS, in 2020, the U.S. Census data found that the State of Washington is home to more than 167,000 people from the South Asian diaspora, largely concentrated in the Greater Seattle area, and show that the South Asian population is the fastest growing major ethnic group in Seattle; and

WHEREAS, The City of Seattle is committed to recognizing the dignity of all its residents, workers, and visitors, including the right to reside, work, and visit a city that does not subject them to prejudicial treatment or discrimination; and

WHEREAS, several years of ordinances adding protected classes in Seattle accidentally overlooked the list of protected classes in Seattle in Seattle Municipal Code Section 5.30.020, and the best way to ensure this list is no longer overlooked is to refer its list of protected classes to Seattle Municipal Code Section 14.06.020’s list, which is amended by this ordinance; NOW, THEREFORE,
