Background: Bruce "Mac" McIntosh worked over 20 years for the Swedish/Providence health care system as part of the hospital's intensive care unit supporting the medical staff. He served as an Executive board member for SEIU, and participated in the LGBT community representing their rights through the Lavender Caucus. After retiring he dedicated a year to John Cary's presidential campaign. He is currently on the Executive Board of the Puget Sound Advocate for Retirement Action (PSARA) and is a regular contributor to their newsletter. He continues to advocate for seniors and the most vulnerable through his membership in the Washington State Senior Citizen Lobby and Washington State Alliance for Retired Americans. He was appointed as the Advisory Council's Advocacy chair during 2015 and brought passion to advocacy efforts on behalf of seniors, people with disabilities and the LGBTQ population.
