Caroline Lemay AIA, Principal

Caroline loves the challenge of working with existing structures, and believes that their rich layers of material and methods provide both insight into the past and incredible learning opportunities. Throughout her 30-year career, she has gained broad experience working on restoration projects of various scales and complexity. As a Principal, she combines exceptional communication, organizational, and technical skills with a seasoned knowledge of design review and building code regulatory processes. A careful listener, Caroline works effectively with all members of the project team.

Education

Bachelor of Architecture,
University of Montreal

Course Work in Restoration,
Conservation de l'Environnement
Bâtit, Université de Montréal

Registration

Architect, WA, #20800

Her experience in preservation includes a wide variety of public and private projects ranging from careful rehabilitations and additions to technically challenging structural, mechanical and architectural retrofitting of historic structures. She has also worked on various project scales, from the rehabilitation of a small one-story industrial brick building in Port Townsend to the extensive restoration of the West Block on Parliament Hill in Ottawa, Canada – one of the country's national icons.
