A special thanks to the City of Seattle State Legislative Delegation, City officials, and City staff

The Office of Intergovernmental Relations (OIR) thanks the Seattle legislative delegation for the countless hours they spent representing the interests of Seattle residents during this virtual legislative session. We would also like to acknowledge all the work of the Mayor, Council, and their staff, and thank them for their direct engagement and support of our City's agenda and priorities this year.

Finally, we would like to extend a special thanks to all the department staff who assisted with the bill review process. Over two thousand bills were introduced this biennium, and we would not have been able to respond to the many far-ranging impacts to the City without all their hard work and expertise.

2022 Session Overview

The Washington State Legislature convened for a 60-day legislative session on Monday, January 10. Once again, legislative business was conducted almost entirely virtually this year, with only a small number of legislators in Olympia throughout the session. Committee hearings, stakeholder meetings, and other legislative business was all conducted remotely.

On the heels of historic victories last year in progressive revenue, housing and homelessness, police reform, and climate justice, the legislature focused on a few key policy areas this year: public safety and gun responsibility, investments in transportation infrastructure, and bolstering housing and human service programs through another robust budget cycle. Many bills failed to advance this year due to the compressed timeline of the short legislative session.

This report provides an overview of significant budgetary and policy decisions made by the legislature during the 2022 legislative session.

Transportation Budget & Move Ahead Washington

The legislature approved the Move Ahead Washington transportation revenue package this session, which will invest $16.9 billion in transportation infrastructure over the next 16 years. Requires that funds be spent on improvements between N 90th and N 105th St. Requires that planning and design costs not exceed 10 percent of overall project costs.
- BIRT – Requires that planning and design costs not exceed 10 percent of overall project costs. Requires an independent cost assessment prior to disbursing more than 50 percent of the funds.
